

Adventure Road Trip

Contributed by admin
Tuesday, 29 August 2006

Adventure road trips can be really great fun: All you need to do is keep some things in your mind while going for the road trip. Given below are some tips which will certainly make your trip an affair to remember!

- You should be familiar with the map of the area you are going to. You should know about the routes and all other things before you start your journey. Mapping software will help you to design the route.
- You should be aware with all the traffic traps. You can get all this information from AAA's website. The website will give you information about the strict enforcement areas.
- You should always try to drive during the day time. This is because it's quite tough to read the signs during night.
- Never forget to pack snacks, food and drinks for the trip.
- To be on the safer side, you must always have a back up for your vehicle keys.
- In case you wear spectacles, don't forget to carry an extra pair.
- You should always carry a first-aid kit on such trips. Also carry reflectors or emergency flares. Flashlight is also a must (keep extra batteries for it).
- Don't carry too much of luggage. You will get better mileage if you pack light.
- You may carry a DVD player. This will keep the kids busy.
- Buy some books so that you can pass your time by reading them. There are also a number of car games which you can play with your family. So you should be well prepared with all these things before you begin your journey.
- You must take your car for complete check-up before your road trip. The whole fun will be destroyed if your car crashes on the way.
- You can actually join AAA which is an automobile club. Make sure that your insurance includes roadside assistance. This will help you especially when you are in an unknown area.
- Your windshield wiper fluid reservoir must be full before you start the trip.
- Take a cooler packed with ice on your trip. This will be a better option than carrying your own drinks as it will save you money.
- Do some researches for your trip. You can go through the guide books or search on the internet. Try to find as much information as possible about the place you are visiting.

And lastly have fun! Enjoy your trip fully! Always plan with extra time in case you have some diversions. Don't panic if you are getting late! Enjoy the road trip. Make it memorable!